

Better Doesn't Rest

Being a responsible steward of the environment has always been a key priority for us. Since 2006, we've been guided by a set of internal targets intended to reduce our environmental impact and grow our production volumes at the same time.

As in everything we do, transparency is an essential part of our sustainability efforts, so we work hard to share what we're doing and how we're doing it. As a result, we earned a top position on the 2015 Carbon Disclosure Leadership Index (CDLI) for disclosing high-quality carbon emissions and energy data through CDP's climate change program.

Specifically, we received a disclosure score of 99 out of a possible 100. This puts us in the top 10 percent of disclosure scores across the S&P 500. Top scores indicate a high level of transparency in the disclosure of climate change-related information, providing people with a level of comfort to assess corporate accountability and preparedness for changing market demands and emissions regulation.

This honor is just one example of what we do on a daily basis to reduce our environmental footprint. And, even though we're proud of what we've accomplished so far, we're always looking for new ways to deliver better results, since we feel a deep sense of obligation to help protect and preserve the resources that have already given us so much.